

The 3 different types of flowers used for formal wishes

There are many times when you have to attend an event that is not related to your family or friends. Such events are called formal events and carrying flowers or suppose it's in some other city suppose Delhi for that matter send flowers to Delhi is possible only if you know what flowers are specially kept aside for formal wishes.

1. White lilies: For an informal office function, this particular flower is the best. It keeps the formal grounds of appreciation intact yet makes it a perfect informal gift for an event you were invited to.
2. White roses: Suppose you are invited to a friend's promotion party. You need to make sure that the bouquet you send is for appreciation and that it is only possible for a bunch of white roses to do.
3. Orchids: No matter who the party's host is and how loosely knit or closed knit, your bond is with the host if it's an office connection and you are unsure what to take. Orchids are a symbol of royalty that never fails to impress others.
