Do I need to repair a small crack?

Yes. Most probably, smaller cracks and chips are repaired without having to replace the whole glass. It incorporates a special process where the cracks or chips are filled with high-quality glass resin preventing it from damaging further and prolonging the life of the existing glass. Preferred Auto Glass has a team of skilled technicians who have years of experience in attending to such issues and providing you with the best advice.

How is windshield glass different from window glass?

Auto windshield glass is designed in the form of a two-layer laminated safety glass. A layer of vinyl sandwiched between the two layers of glass allows the windshield to stay intact at the time of collision. While, window glass is made up of tempered glass that results in its shattering into smaller pieces, preventing major injuries in the event of an accident. Hence, car windshield repair requires a different kind of glass than that from window glass. Preferred
