BLDRS

The builders collective is a movement to build leaders to design a resilient society. We use human-centred design to create engaging experiences through art, design, social change, and social architecture to imagine, design, and build sustainable, livable environments and communities.

*to inspire imagination, create collaboratively,
and build community and resilience.*

imagination

Creative thinking and ideation inspired by challenges to solve problems by leading with curiosity, empathy, and intellectual honesty and authenticity.

collaboration

Community and connection to create an environment for an inclusive, interactive, and interdependent process of learning, discovery, and innovation.

resilience

The emotional intelligence and intellectual awarness to create complex structures that build on our strengths while acknowledging when change is necessary.
