Life is a roller coaster ride with never-ending adventure. Until your last breath, you will experience incidents that keep surprising you. Every encounter will be a deluge of emotions. However, every interaction in your life is God's plan. The incidents and emotions you face are something He has decided for you. Now, you may ask about unfavorable events and incidents in your life. Did God plan them, too? Well, yes! You should never doubt God's plan, even the rejections you face.

Rejection and Unfavorable Outcomes

One of the gravest experiences in an individual's life is rejection. It can be a job, love, or any other. Rejections are always discouraging, disheartening, and upsetting. Why would God make his creatures experience these emotions?

Accept God, Accept Rejections

Your eagerness about rejections being God's plan will soar to greater heights. What have been your consistent thoughts about rejections in your life? Usually, an individual considers it as an unfair incident. People always blame the almighty after losing an opportunity or watching someone else in their desired position.

Lysa TerKeurst wrote Uninvited, intending to pull people out of delusion. Rejection is never your failure. Instead, this sets the steppingstone to your success. And this success never intends exemplarily to materialistic or worldly conquest. Genuine success implies building the strongest bond with God.

God Never Hates His People

The dramatic response to non-acceptance is the worst you can do. "Oh! God must have hated me", "He would have never loved me", "Maybe I am suffering the consequences of my former sins", etc., are some of the most insignificant thoughts.

Lysa TerKeurst's Uninvited will bring you back to the track. Instead, the almighty is looking at the bigger picture. He is trying to get you closer and spark the lost faith in you. You can understand more about the almighty's intent by reading this book. It has all the answers and solutions you seek.
